DARKLEAF'S

Column

BY C.H.R.

Now comes Mother Brightleaf with a new interest in this here now column and tells us: "It's a yarn on that splendid fellow, Allen O'Brien. According to Mother Brightleaf, the one at Allen's party playing bridge, Yessah, Mother Brightleaf made a bid and Allen raised the bid. The play began and it turned out that the bid wasn't so hot and a defeat stared them in the face, somehow Allen's foot got tripped and he fell under the table and the bridge table, and the cards, table and the chairs were spilled to the floor."

The total enrollment, as of October 1, in the public schools of Appomattox county was 2,050, according to an announcement made today by Superintendent J. A. Burke. These figures are taken from teacher's first of the month reports.

The total white enrollment is 1,475 and the colored 575. There are 300 white high school pupils and 175 white elementary grade pupils. There are 52 colored high school pupils and 523 colored elementary grade pupils. The total white and colored high school enrollment is 352 and the total white and colored grade enrollment is 1,698.

The number of pupils attending school is probably equal to or greater than the number of pupils in the county. Physical inspection has been held in the schools of the county, but detailed reports of five-point pupils and defects have not as yet been compiled.

One year ago today the fox-hunters were meeting in Appomattox for their annual hunt. Father Darkleaf got up a five o'clock and went out with them. He had a fine time at about 7:30, Capt. "Buck" Clements was standing in the doorway. He had gotten up to go fox-hunting, but his conveyance failed to arrive and all he could do was listen to the dogs barking in a distance. He chattered for awhile of this and that and Father Darkleaf left the office for a trip to Lynchburg.

At that time Lynchburg was a village and Bent Creek gave promises growing into the metropolis of this section of the state. It is said that the Whites were not seeking machinery for installation, at the time the war broke out, and the plan fell through. According to Mrs. Ida Marks, when the building was taken down, some manufactured tobacco was found in the building still in fairly good condition and was pressed. The property was the Robertson family's, but purchased by the Pettigrews.

The Rev. G. D. Coffey and the Rev. J. H. White, of the Appomattox and the Pamplin Methodist church, will lead the delegations from their churches attending the annual conference of the Methodist denomination of Virginia to be held shortly in Norfolk. According to a rule of the Methodist church, pastors are moved to encourage the town to rally to the support of the struggling football team and help them get started this year!

That's what we editors go through with. Well, we maintain our point. If funds for procuring suitable equipment can be obtained and boys of adequate training play the game, it is not that far off from going to it follows and give us a winning team. But unless you are thorough prepared, you are not that far off from giving greater chance of meeting local needs.

A contest in readings and dialogues is being planned at the Stonewall school for November 17. People of all ages may participate. Prizes of $2, $1.50 and $1 are being offered for the best selection and entertainment. Those desiring to enter may do so by notifying Miss Christine Garrett, Concord, by October 18. In notification, name the selection to be rendered and if a selection to be rendered is desired same will be furnished.

This novel program is expected to draw a large crowd and many contestants.
